Hey! WELCOME AUTUMN

From earth to heaven, and from heaven to earth.
The Beauty of Aging and Call it Magic are the two capsules that are part of the Kave Home AW19 collection.
A journey through two worlds that reflects duality.

AW19

The Beauty of Aging

Nature shows us her beauty hidden in a time of change and transition. The concept of the passing of time is perceived positively as a process of regeneration.

Moss, leaves and branches accompany us through this end of the cycle during the autumn. Their organic colours and textures have inspired us to create this capsule.

Dark floral patterns

Flowers are the ultimate expression of life in nature. Even during the final stages, colours such as burgundy or pink take importance. A source of inspiration for the patterns and pieces we have designed.

The slow goodbye

Days filled with light are ending and, with the change of foliage, trees bid farewell to their leaves after a whole year to be reborn and usher in the next one. A change to show us the beauty of aging that will give us the tranquillity to embark on a moment of transition, adaptation, and peace.

Moss lover

Dense textures gain strength through their tactile and sensory qualities, simulating nature that emerges in the damp surfaces of the forests. Moss recreates a fantasy visible in shapes and colours that are represented in some of the pieces in this collection.

The wilder side of nature is still a great source of creativity for prints and design, going deeper into the forest and observing the textures of the undergrowth.

Corduroy & Velvet

This armchair is one of the latest versions in the Meghan collection. Upholstered in mustard corduroy with a visible structure made from solid ash with a wenge finish, it follows and updates Mid-Century lines. It also maintains its ample curves, an aesthetic and functional signature in this collection. A design piece with clear intentions to shape and comfort. Cool relaxation!

In wood we trust

Wood is a material that ages naturally, a beauty that showcases the scratched effect in a precise and elegant way.

Sisina ceiling lamp - 69€
Delsie Sideboard - 669€

Not only is solid wood highly resistant, it also retains all its charm in every piece, with the knots and cracks that make each piece of furniture truly unique. A material that expresses the passing of time as it darkens, and a patina that shows its natural wrinkling, accentuated when the wood is left untreated.

Macarena Gómez actress, mother, gymnast, dancer... She is all that and much more. A lover of trends and fashion, but always with a personal touch and remaining loyal to her own unique style. Would you like to discover the decor she has chosen for her little haven in Empordà and many more secrets besides? Today we are her guests. Come on in.

The Spanish actress Macarena Gómez and her husband Aldo Comas have opened the doors to their home in Empordà, where they have found a place to disconnect from their non-stop lives. They both adore this region, its beaches, its people and its mountains, and could not have chosen a better spot. The house is a reflection of her personality, and she defines herself as an eclectic woman. Without being typecast into any one style, she has a very good eye and a great imagination. A huge fan of bright colours and prints. So the blue Debra sofa goes perfectly in her living room. Taking its inspiration from Mid Century lines and Scandi style, it brings a touch of modernity and elegance. To connect with nature and create a rustic feel, the Georg wooden sideboard in natural shades was a perfect match. As if that were not enough, she has paired it with the Tulsi coffee table, which has its own personality, combining wood and glass. She explains to us that, for her, decor is an inspired science based on watching and helping her mother, who was passionate about decor, and she has become quite an expert. Her home is full of details and personal objects combined with design furniture and highly chic decor. She has never been a huge fan of rugs, but she simply couldn't resist the colourful Kopke, featuring a multi-coloured print that fills her living room with life and personality.

Her home is more than ready to receive guests on the weekend! If you cannot resist and you want the look created by Macarena Gómez, find all the furniture and decoration with us.
